The Veres

From Halifax we learn that the steamship Frankhin yesterday put into that place short of coal. Unfertunately, not a word of the F's news from Europe, which is probably two days later, has been received. The Pacific is over due at this port, with four days later advices Fears are beginning to be entertained that she has met with some accident, and been obliged to put back.

The steamer Prometheus last night arrived from Ban Juan, with one day's later advices from California. The news is of but little importance.

The despatch from our special correspondent at Concord, N H., the home of Gen. Pierce, confirms our previous statements, that all the rumors relative to the formation of the next cabinet were but mere speculative inventions of the friends of interested parties, who have thrown them out in order to secertain how they would be received by the people, as well as by the President elect. It is true that Senster Hunter had an interview with Gen. P. in Boston, after which, not being invited, as is supposed, to Concord, he quietly returned to Washington, and thence went to Virginia, and there remains till after the helidays. So much for the cobinet rumer, which placed him at the head of the Mirt. By the way, the Hon. John S. Barbour has been recommended to a seat in the cabinet by a large number of the members of the Virginia Legislature. What shall we have next?

Hon. W. R. King, we regret to learn, is tgain so much worse that it is deemed advisable for him to spend the winter at Havana. The Postmaster General, we understand, has granted permission for one of the mail steamers from this city to touch at Norfolk, for the purpose of taking the venerable statesman or board.

There was again but a very slim attendance of members in either branch of Congress yesterday. In the Senate, there were only twenty-six gentlemen present; and much time was spent in the House before a sufficient number could be found to form a quorum and permit the reading of the journal. The Senate, however, managed to get through with considerable business, though of rather an unimportant character. " In addition to the passage of some ten relief and other minor bills, the House resolution allowing two clarks and a messenger for the Printing Superintendent, was adopted, as was also a joint resolution extending the time to steamers, in certain cases, to bring their verseis within the requirements of the steamboat law enacted at the last session. Several petitions were presented from inhabitants of Onlifernia, asking for a restoration of the law permitting the receipt of ingote and bers of gold in the payment of Custon House dues. This gave Benator Gwin as opportunity to explain the reason of his opposition to the petitioners on this subject; after which the petitions were referred. Is it not somewhat strange that Mr. Gwin should so stranuously oppose what the mercantile portion of his constituents deem of vital interest to them! Unon the whole, the Senate did a fair day's work, considering that it is holiday week.

The publication of a lengthy speech in the official Congressional organ, purporting to have been delivered by Mr. Smart, of Maine, yesterday gave rise to the most lengthy and piquant debate that has taken place in the House during this session Mr. Stanly offered a resolution that the official reporters be directed hereafter not to report, as part of the proceedings, speeches not actually made in the House, without leave of the body. It appears that Mr. Emart had caused the publication, without the proper permission, of a speech prepared to sustain a resolution he offered on Monday, asking for information as te what stope had been taken by the President, within the past year, with respect to the capture and confiscation of the bark Georgiana and brig Susan Loud, by the Spanish authoritis. This plan of publishing undelivered speeches certainly saves the unnacessary expenditure of a great deal of time, yet it must be confessed that it is a very questionable manner of doing business. The report of the debate establishes the curious fact that gentlemen are in the habit of having printed, at the expense of the public, speeches that would take four or five hours to deliver; when, in reality, they spoke under the one hour rule. Though Mr. Smart did not, on the previous day, make the speech with which the official journal credited him, he yesterday managed, in the course of the discussion, to make use of the leading points therein contained. Mr. Stanly's resolution was finally adopted, after which the House adjourned, without having transacted any other business, if we except the motion of Mr. White to adjourn over till the 1st of February. He is a philosopher, and truly understands the interests of the people. Road the report-it is decidedly rich, and exhibits the peculiar way in which our legislaters do the work of their constituents.

But, for downright sober sided, earnest legislation, the doings in Congress will not begin to com pare with the proceedings in the Convention of Spiritualists hold in Boston yesterday. This body, which purports to have been composed of mortals and immortals, got along peaceably and smoothly, and the report of their transactions will be read with universal interest. Before the breaking up of the convention some of the spirits have promised to unseal the dips of their earthly mediums, and dis-close many wonders with regard to the prospective world, that will astonish all mankind. Our readers will doubtless await there revelations with the utmost anxiety.

An advertisement for proposals for the brick work of the Capital extension confirms the statement of our special correspondent that there was no truth in the reiterated assertions of anonymous letter writers, that the Secretary of the Interior had decided upon not giving out any more scattacts during the remainder of his term of stime of any experiency demograte. Well, almover, as inspector General.

Mr. Cabell, whig member of the pre-Mr. Cabell, whig member of the present congress, from Florida, is opposed to the acquisition of either Cuba or the Sandwich Islands, and thinks that all that would be requsite for the de'ence of our pos-sessions along the Gulf of Mexico, would be the for-tification of Key West and other strong points on the Plerids coast. With an enemy's vessels in front, Billy Bowlegs and his Indians in the rear, and alligators, makes, and musquites, all around, our soldiers would be apt to have any thing else than enviable berths in such quarters.

Prior to adjournment, the North Carolina Legis ature elected General R. M. Saunders, Judge of the Supreme Court, and indefinitely portponed a motion to ge into an election for a United States Senator in place of Mr. Mangum.

A despatch from Boston gives credence to a rumer that Mr Livingston, the American Consul at Halifax, N. S., died yesterday.

The schooner Advance, which we recently men tioned as having been captured as a slaver by the American fleet, at Port Praya, has arrived at Norfolk. The captain of the A. effected his escape, but the mate and four seamen were arrested and brought back in her. The ship Pandors, heavily full of cotton for Liverpool, took fire at New Orleans on the 26th, and was still burning on the evening of that day. It was supposed that most of her cargo would be destroyed.

The brig Pedrasa has been libelled in Charleston, for violating the passenger laws. If the authorities in the North were a little more particular with regard to these violations, it would greatly tend to the benefit of emigrants.

We have received files of papers from Bermuda to the 22d of December, but the only item of interest that we can find is, that Admiral Seymour had departed in the Comberland on a cruise throughout his extensive West Indian command He intended to call first at Barbadoes.

The New Treaty with England.

The treaty now on the eve of being concluded between the United States and Great Britain, will, it is presumed, settle the questions which have of late attracted so much of public attention in this country and Canada. Our telegraphic despatches frem Washington have communicated to us the information that the negotiations between Messrs. Everett and Crampton, on the fishery question, have resulted in the draft of a treaty, and that it now requires to be sanctioned by the British government to make it complete so far as England is concerned. After that, it will be submitted to the consideration of the Senate of the United States for re-fection or ratification. Our correspondent learns that not only the subject of the North American fisheries, but the question of reciprocity and the free navigation of the St. Lawrence, engaged the attention of the negotiators. It is a matter of great importance to our commercial interests that the old restrictive policy between the United States and the British Colonies in North America should be annulled, and superseded by a liberal system, more consonant to the feelings and wants of the present day; and the conclusion and ratification of a treaty tending towards reciprocity with the provinces would undoubtelly be hailed with satisfaction by the mercantile classes of both countries. But will this new treaty answer the purpose ?

It is also stated that the question between this government and the Hudson's Bay Company has been taken up by Mr Everett. It is known that the Hudson's Bay Company are entitled to certain possessory rights in Oregon, extending to a point within our territory, and embracing several forts and settlements, all of which they have proposed coding to the United States, in consideration of the round sum of a million of dellars. Some years since, nogotia tions were opened on the subject; but the demand of the company was considered exorbitant, and the matter was parmitted to fall to the ground. It is a matter solely between our government and the Hudson's Bay Company. If the terms of sale and transfer be agreed on between the company and our government, it needs not that these terms meet the approbation of the British government, except to require their official recognition and endorsement of the transfer de facto, so far as the Eaglish subjects are interested.

We shall look with some impatience to the promulgation of the terms of the new treaty. After its ratification by the British government, it will be laid before the Senate of the United States, when the country will have an opportunity of judging of its merits, and when we will probably be much edified by the discussions which will take place in that body as to its final adoption. Will the Senate ratify it within the few weeks of the advent of a new administration !

THE NEW STATE GOVERNMENT .- We learn that Covernor Seymour has completed the appointment office. This will be rather disagreeable nows to of his staff, by selecting Colonel Philip S. Crooke

THE CHYSTAL PALACE-THE MEMORY OF R Brans — We learn from an Ayr (Scotland) correspondent, that a pair of white worsted seeks, hnitted by the sister of the Scottish poet, Robert Burne, will be shortly sent for exhibition to the Crystal Palace in this city. The venerable lady is eighty-two years old, and this curious specimen of the handiwork of so near a relative of the immortal bard can not fail to create an interest among all who admire his genius and are acquainted with his poetry. And who, in the United States of America, is ignerant of the songs of Robert Burns! Who has not read his "Tam O'Shan.er," in which " Alloway's suld haunted kirk" is so graphically described! And this reminds us of a piece of vandalism recently per petrated there. The old kirk yard, visited by travellers from every quarter of the globe, and by thoumands of Americans, has been grubbed up, and every mound by which one grave could be distinguished from another has been cut away, and all reduced to one level. The old green sods where the gowan has yearly raised its modest head, and gently smiled on spring, are all gone, and one flat, tame, and even aspect given to this blessed spot, sacred to so many memories of old. Every visiter loved to wan-der through the old gray pile, and to look on all things therein, solely because there they stood as when Burns saw them, wrote of them, and threw around them the immortality of his own genius. Now they are all effaced, and can only live in the deathless strains of the poet. The strangest part of the business is, that the desecration was wrought by "a committee of the parishioners, of whom the conservator of Burns's monument is one, to make room, or economise the space, in the church yard, and to afford strangers a level promenade, unob-structed by the grave mounds of the dead." We learn that travellers from this country have invariably visited the humble cot of the sister of Burns, shared her hospitality, and enjoyed her chat. They will no doubt continue to do so while she lives; but no longer can they look upon the same scene immortalized in the tale of "Tam O'Shanter."

If there is anything perfect in the would, it is the detestation which every man (whose interests are disconnected from peculiar local speculations) feels and expresses concerning this city of Vallejo, the present location of the gowmment of California. Already the question of the gowmment of California. Already the question of removal is agitated and log rolling has commenced in carnest. Benecia's claims are advocated pretty strongly—for what reasons I know not, nor what these claims are—but certain I do feel that if the Legislature assembles at Vallejo, a removal will take place within three days thereatter. MESSENGER TO BEAR THE VOTE TO WASHINGTON.

We learn from Vallejo that Thomas J. Henley, of Sacramento, one of the electors, was chosen yesterday as messenger to bear the vote of California to Washington.

The vote stood for Mr. Henley, Messrs, Sherwood, Pico and Henley; Mr. Gregory votting for Mr. Brent.

DIVINIS THE SPOLES

The vote stood for Mr. Henley, Messrs. Sherwood, Pico and Henley, Mr. Gregory voting for Mr. Brent.

DIVIDING THE SPOILS

Judging from our Vellejo correspondence, there must have quen quite a rich time at that same embryo city yesterday. The Presidential electors were there, for the purpose of going through the form of voting for President, and the patrictic gentlemen who desire to erve the country—and themselves—thinking it a good idea to have the assistance of the electors, hocked to the "Capitol" in swams, each one with a petition in his pecket, praying for some office, and setting torth in glowing colors his extracrdinary fitness for the place. These petitions the electors were called upon to sign, and are to be forwarded to Washington, of course. Every federal office in California, high low and medium, was a subject of petition. This is all right enough, upon the principle that to the victors belong the spoils. But it would look less greedy and more rational for the victors to be sure they have the spoils before they divide them. If it turns out the 'phitis' are correct about the Presidential election, these patitotic petitioners, like Falstaff and his comrades, will find themselves set upon by the men in buckram, and the spoils taken away.

THERTY OF THE ERD MEN KILLED.

The Shasta Courier contains the following letter, from a correspondent at Yreka, dated Nov 21, giving an account of a battle that Capt Wright and his party had with the Indians, in which thirty of the latter were killed.—

For the past two or three days the town has been in quite a state of excitement. On Monday morning last, three persons arrived from Capt Benjamin Wright's camp with information that a fight had taken place on Monday morning previous with the Indians, and that thirty one Indians had been killed, and two of our citizens wounded, and wanted medical sid.

One of the physicians of our town started immediately to meet them, accompanied by Messes. O. D. Cotton and Helm, one of the messengers. After riding two days and nights, to within fifteen miles of the scene of conflict, without meeting them, they returned to town, and reported that they were fearful that Capt. Wright and his party had been surprised.

A meeting was called, and a party of twenty was raised to go to the rescue. Messengers were despatched to Scott's Valley to Maj. Fitzgereld, who, with the promptitude characteristic of the true soldier, ordered up a detachment of forty two men, under the command of Lieut. Cassily, Lieut. O., with his commend reached town last evening just as the party started from here.

Fortunately our fears were unfounded, the delay of Capt, Wright and his party was caused by the inability of the wounded to travel.

The party proceeded as far as Sheep Rock, where they found Capt. Wright encamped, on his way in. This afternoon the party reached town, and paraded through the streets, the wounded being berne in litters, each of the party, consisting of sixteen whites, two Indians, and a negro. having a bow and quiver of arrows and the muzzle of his gun decreated with a realp taken from the enemy.

They are now comfortable, and with care they may be out among their fellow-citizens in a few weeks. Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon Capitals Wright and his party for the manner in which they have acquitted themselves. They have been out since August last, soffering every privation, to protect the travel worn emigrant from the merciless savage and closed the campaign by revenging the deaths of our oldizens with a terrible retribution.

The who e town seems to be wild with joy. Every house is free to the brave party, and I sincerely trust that our eltirons and our legislature will give them some more substantial recompense than thanks and praise, for they have, by their bravery, (taught the redekins that they cannot rob and murder the white man with impunity.

High Price of Provisions in the Mines, &c.

[From the Shasta Courier.]

The travel between Shasta and Weaverville has been greater during the past week than ever before. An immense amount of provisions during the same time has been packed into Weaverville, and we hope soon to hear that the miners in that region have ceased to pay sixty and reventy centre per pound for flour, and for other provisions in the same proportion.

Many miners have left Trinity county on account of the very high prices of provisions. We understand that about two hundred of them have, within a few days, located claims upon Churn Creek in this county, for their winter's operations. The Weathers—For the part three or four days it has been raining sir out incessantly, and the present appearance of the disappeable weather. The wind has been shifting to all quarters, and during the day blew from all points of the compass. The bay was lashed into a foam and the small craft danced a lively accompaniment on the disturbed waters. Business appears to be suspended, and but little is to be seen in the street, excepting now and then a pair of long-legged boots and an umbrella, bobbing through the muddy streets or on the cray sidewalts. As far as we could learn after a careful investigation, the demage done by the rains is trifling and inconsiderable. None of the buildings constructed on made ground have been injured, and nearly all the cellars are perfectly dry below Montgomery street. It was feared by many that these rains would destroy some of the splendid brick buildings erected on the sand, but so far they remain unimpaired.
